

Dry Fly
Taxidermy

A stylized, black and white illustration of a fly, where the body is replaced by a classical building facade with columns and a pediment. The wings are spread out to the left, and the legs are visible at the bottom. The text "Dry Fly" is written in a large, serif font above the fly's head, and "Taxidermy" is written in a similar font below it.